County Floral Fiesta Plans Go Forward

The biggest floral display ever held in San Mateo County with the additional attraction of pageants, parades, fireworks and all manner of related entertainment features will be held in the beautiful Bay Meadows Grand Stand and Club House on October 11, 12 and 13, at San Mateo. The largest display will be devoted to chrysanthemums, of which there are 192 acres grown in San Mateo county.

Enormous showings of carnations, asters, snapdragons, roses, gladioli and cactus with a special display of orchids will be part of the show.

Classifications including commercial growers, private estate gardeners and amateurs have been provided for. Schools, garden clubs and Boy and Girl Scout Troops will have their chances to win coveted awards. A novelty will be an elaborate exhibit of rare birds and tropical fish. The preliminary schedule for the garden and flower show division of the Fiesta has just been mailed from the Headquarters, 116 B. Street, San Mateo, by Merrit A. Vinson. Copies may be obtained at the headquarters.

A floral pageant staged by Fred Carlyle, famous dramatic coach, will use large groups of trained dancers from each of the fifteen communities in San Mateo county which are co-operating with the Fiesta. Already groups are in training under experts.

A floral parade in which every school in the county will participate is being arranged under the direction of Dave McCullough in co-operation with Miss Pansy Abbott, County Superintendent of schools.

A contest for the naming of "Queen Flora" who will rule over the pageant, is being carried on throughout the county by Hugh Barrett Dobbs, nationally known radio star.

Ethiopia To Receive California Fruit

Eighty-two carloads of pears, plums and apples, the largest single shipment of fresh decidious fruit ever to be shipped from California in one day—left San Francisco last week for Europe on five refrigerator ships.

Simultaneously, 33 more carloads of fruit, six of them bound for Ethiopia, went overland from the northern California terminus to New York and Montreal to be shipped from there to Europe Asia and Africa. Prices for all shipments were reported as satisfactory.

The previous record shipment for a single day was made last year when 45 cars of pears went to England and Scandinavia.

Heavy exports this year are attributed to considerable crop damage in Europe. Even at that, exports from this state are much greater than anticipated.

The first export shipment of fresh deciduous fruits from California was made about 20 years ago.

Hospitalization Suggestion By Menlo Park Resident

The followng communication has been received for publication and the editor will welcome any further views on the matter.

"A few days ago I visited two sick friends in the Palo Alto Hospital. One was just across from the other and both receiving the same kind of treatment, each had the same kind of a room, and one was paying $2.50 per day more than the other. The reason for that being that one came from Menlo Park and the other from Palo Alto. I understand that the city of Palo Alto takes care of the difference for its citizens.

"I think it would be a fine thing if the citizens of Menlo Park could have the same rates as the Palo Alto residents.

"In discussing the matter with a Menlo Park man, he said, 'well we have the Community Hospital at Beresford, anyone that wants a cheap rate can go there,' I told him that was true alright, but many people do not like to go to the Community Hospital as the public in general might think that they were going there at the expense of the county, and for that reason alone they would rather go to the Palo Alto hospital. Also most of Menlo Park's emergency cases are rushed to Palo Alto hospital on account of it being so handy.

"I have talked to many Menlo Park citizens in regard to this matter and they heartily favor it, and it can be worked out to the benefit of Menlo Park residents.

"My object in publishing this is that the public may become interested and that the matter may be worked out satisfactorily in some manner.

"MARK J. LOUGHLIN."

State To Dispose Of Seized Liquor

California liquor law administrators, working under the State Board of Equalization have seized 10,000 bottles of whiskey, gin, rum, alcohol, cocktails and cordials. They are undetermined just what is to be done with the collection.

According to the law, absconded liquor may either be destroyed or sold at public auction. The liquor in state possession is belived valued at $10,000.

George M. Stout, state liquor control administrator, and the Board of Equalization have asked Attorney General U. S. Webb whether or not the state has the right to sell the liquor.

The bottles were seized because liquor establishments possessing them were unlicensed or improperly licensed and because dealers failed to mark their bottles with the state tax stamp required after July 1.

Motor Vehicle Registration Shows Record Gain

Record gain in motor vehicle registration in first six months of this year, bringing increase in apportionment of funds for highway development and repair, gave new evidence of improved business conditions in California.

Reporting to Governor Frank F. Merriam, Director Ray Ingels of department of motor vehicles announced a total of 2,077,350 fee-paid registrations for the six-month period ending June 30 and a consequent apportionment of $5,565,586.34 for highway construction and repair.

Half of the apportionment, $2,782,793.17, goes to division of highways for development and repair of state roads. The other half is shared by the 58 counties for highway improvement and construction in their political subdivisions, the allotment being based on vehicle registrations in the counties.

Santa Clara County, with 60,943 registrations, has been apportioned $81,638.

"With the six-month apportionment figure exceeding that of the same period for 1934 by $422,217.54 and being greater by $121,388.10 than the 12-month total of last year, there is no question concerning California's upward trend," said Director Ingels. "Registration of motor vehicles from January 1 to June 30 was the heaviest since 1929 and every county listed a gain in the total increase of 113,464 registrations over the first six months of 1934."

In announcing the increased apportionment figures, the director called attention to the fact that labor will receive greatest benefits because of a general advance in road programs being allowed by the added funds. Los Angeles County, with the greatest registration, will get the largest share in apportionment of motor vehicle fees.

The six-month total in registrations included the following classifications: Automobiles, 1,870,623; solid tire trucks, 3,669; pneumatic tire trucks, 116,438; motorcycles, 7,782; solid tire trailers, 5,948; pneumatic tire trailers, 72,890.

WITH OUR POETS

I like to see a doorway wide,
The door ajar a space,
With "Welcome" showing on the step,
The curtains hung with grace.
I always feel a friendly man
Is home, if I should call;
At my disposal, if I stop,
He freely places all.

I like to know that all through life
The doors are open wide,
And that on every hand I find
My call is not denied,
That life says, "Welcome," back to me
Wherever I may go,
And that it's all it offers me;
At least, I've found it so.

And, so, I like my doorway wide,
I like my door ajar,
That, possibly, my light may bring
Some stranger from afar.
That he, in searching for a door,
May see my light and take
Fresh courage then and, if he can,
A little visit make.

—UNKNOWN.

They say the world is round, and yet,
I often think it's square.
So many little hurts we get
From corners here and there.
But there's one truth in life I've found
While journeying east and west,
The only folks we really wound
Are those we love the best.
We flatter those we scarcely know,
We please the fleeting guest,
And deal full many a thoughtless blow,
To those we love the best.

CAPITOL COMMENT

ONE MAN'S OPINION
By Graham Berry
Recorder Correspondent at Sacramento

It must be the displays of old muskets, pistols and warflags in the rotunda of the State Capitol here at Sacramento. There's nothing else about the venerable structure at all warlike.

Whatever the cause, every time the legislature, or any group in any way connected with California politics, convenes or meets at the State Capitol, a battle enevitably ensues.

Even when such peace-promoting organizations as the Personnel Board and the state senate committee, appointed to investigate California's new civil service setup, get together, it isn't long before the political fur begins to fly.

E. H. Christian, chairman of the newly-formed personnel board in charge of state civil service, accused, "Nearly every employe of the Board of Equalization was engaged in campaigning." This was meant in connection with the 1934 political campaigns.

To this and other attacks on their hiring and firing methods the Board of Equalization answered, "Piffle."

As for oral examinations given under the new setup, Senator Bradford S. Crittenden, investigating committee member, aimed a broadside at the Personnel Board: "If what I have heard about the oral examinations is true, it is the worst underground pork-barrel system we've ever had."

The committee feels that the new civil service has not helped much in relieving the state government of the burden of politics. Reform is needed, unless officials are willing to let the new system slip back into the grooves of the old.

The new oral exams, for instance, the committee believes, differ little from the old political ones in which an applicant would say:

"Mr. DeGraft, two of your friends, Mr. Logroller and Mr. Swindlesheet, told me to come over to see you about an easy political job."

To which the head of the department would say, "Oh yes, yes. What can you do?"

"Nothing," the applicant would reply.

"Good," the politician would answer. "We won't even have to break you in."

The nerves of about 2,000 civil service employes are not so upset now by the triangular verbal battle between the Board of Equalization, the Personnel Board and the civil service investigating committee. The reason for this was that last Tuesday was the 20th of August.

On that date all those serving "probationary" terms were automatically taken into the civil service. From now on their jobs are safe from the wiles of politicians and the jobs are theirs as long as they can do the work.

Aunt Martha Says:

Aunt Jerushy Morton used to say that there was just so much happines distributed in this world, and if it wasn't coming to you personally the way to keep from missing out on it altogether was to enjoy that of your neighbors and friends.

This sounds good on paper, but it is terrible hard to put in practice. It's almost too much to expect of human beings. When you got to be a good han dat it, I'm afraid you wouldn't be on this earth. You would be wearing wings.

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "Mind is God. . . . We can have but one Mind, if that one is infinite. . . . . A New Dinner Deal

NOT a New Deal dinner, but a new dinner deal is what we are talking about. Times are too uncertain nowadays for us to eat up all the money we earn, but that doesn't mean by a long shot that we should eat less well. All that it implies is a little more careful planning on the part of the housewife, and there are a number of ways in which she is doing it now.

If she has a mechanical refrigerator, for instance, she is all fixed to take advantage of the weekly "bargain specials" in butcher shops and grocery stores, and she can keep the food she has purchased at bargain prices safe and sweet in her refrigerator until it is eaten up. She can also buy large sized cans containing twice as much food, which cost usually only a few cents more than the small ones, and keep the unused part in her refrigerator. These devices may mean a saving of more than a dollar a week—fifty or sixty dollars a year!

Planning Is Fun

Another way she can economize on food is to plan more carefully the dishes she will serve, with price as a consideration as well as taste and appropriateness to the other dishes in the meal. It is real fun and a small triumph to be able to think up another dish just as tasty and appropriate as the one you first thought of but costing less. That these three factors can be successfully combined, once you get the knack of it, is proved by the following tempting menu devised by a graduate dietitian to serve to six people at a cost of only a dollar and a half

Melon and Grapefruit Cocktail 15¢
Jellied Salmon Mold 46¢
Mashed Potato Puff 16¢
Radishes and Scallions 15¢
Bread and Butter 12¢
Blackberry Roll with Cream 34¢
Iced Coffee 12¢

Of course these prices are only approximate, but as much of the dinner consists of canned foods and their prices are more stable than that of fresh foods, they can be taken as fairly representative.

Here Are the Recipes

Melon and Grapefruit Cocktail: Combine half the contents of a No. 2 can grapefruit (saving the other half in the refrigerator to serve at another meal), one cup watermelon cubes and one cup cantaloupe cubes. Arrange in cocktail glasses and chill.

Jellied Salmon Mold: Dissolve one package lemon gelatin in one and a half cups boiling water. Cool and add one-half cup orange juice and one-half cup canned grapefruit juice. When it starts to stiffen, add the flaked contents of one tall can salmon, one cup diced celery and one-fourth cup diced sweet pickles. Chill in a mold. Unmold and serve on six leaves of lettuce with six tablespoons of mayonnaise. This makes sufficient for six liberal servings.

Mashed Potato Puff: Beat one egg, and add with one cup grated cheese, salt, pepper and one third cup diluted evaporated milk to two cups hot mashed potato. Add one tablespoon butter, beat with fork until fluffy and pile lightly into a buttered baking dish. Dot with one tablespoon butter, and place in a hot oven for thirty minutes, or until browned.*

Merriam To Huddle With Highway Board

Governor Frank Merriam and the Highway Commission, meeting on September 6, will be faced with the necessity of trimming $5,100,000 from the 1935-37 construction program.

This action has been made necessary because of the smaller amount of money the state will receive from gas taxes, cities having been allocated an extra quarter-cent of this tax money.

Further restriction of the highway program is expected because of the need to put men from overcrowded prisons to work in prison road camps, according to Public Works Director Earl Lee Kelly. The budget appropriation for existing camps is $2,850,000.

Governor Merriam has advocated, with the support of Finance Director A. E. Stockburger, transfer of 2,000 men from San Quentin and Folsom Prisons to road camps. In six road camps, 542 prisoners are already at work, building roads.

"One or two additional convict camps can be established," Kelly sid, "And we will cooperate with the prison board in attempting to relieve prison crowding. But the Highway Commission must consider that its construction budget is already reduced and diversion of funds to prison camps will sidetrack essential projects."

Mr. and Mrs. David Ingram and son David, have returned from a very delightful vacation which included many places of interest in the west and middle west.

KILLED IN ALASKA AIR CRASH

Wiley Post, left, and Will Rogers were both killed instantaneously when their new single-motored monoplane crashed 15 miles south of Point Barrow, Alaska. The two internationally famous figures were en route from Fairbanks to Point Barrow when the tragedy occurred. Natives heard the motor sputter just before the plane nose-dived into a marshy stretch of ground. They started recently from Los Angeles with Moscow as their probable destination.

News Oddities

Oroville—A gourd belonging to Mrs. M. Harden split open after being in service 42 years as a stocking darner. Mr. Harden planted the seeds which fell out to see what would happen. They sprouted into plants which are now blooming.

Berkeley—C. H. Martin, police officer here, vacationed at Crater Lake, Oregon. While asleep a bear came into his tent. He had heard that if you lay still a bear wouldn't attack. Martin played possum. The bear hadn't heard this "fact" and dragged Martin from his bed, mauling him. When he bit the officer's arm, Martin forgot to play dead and ran away.

Byron—Ed Krumland, rancher, poured a chloride of lime solution into a tree to kill termites. Out from a knothole walked six naked squirrels.

FROZEN MAN EXPERIMENT PLANNED

Photo shows Chemist Ralph Willard, left, and Stephen Simkhovitch, young writer, discussing plans at a dinner table in Hollywood to kill Simkhovitch, freeze him and later revive him. The writer has signed a contract to submit himself as a human guinea pig in a before and after death experiment to be conducted by the chemist. Willard claims to have resuscitated a small monkey that had been frozen to death five days previously. Announcement that Willard would experiment on a human caused Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, to declare the law would not allow it.

Calif. Auto Assn. Passes 28th Year

Brought into existence by a pioneer group of motor car owners meeting in a single room in San Francisco on August 17, 1907, the California State Automobile Association has just marked its twenty-eighth anniversary. In a message to the more than 62,000 motorists enrolled as members of the Association, Arthur H. Breed, president, notes that the organization enters its twenty-ninth year securely holding the position it has occupied for many years as one of the world's leading motor clubs.

Breed stated that the definite upward trend in membership strength which begun last year has increased since the first of this year and that the Association retains its place as largest of the hundreds of clubs affiliated with the American Automobile Association. He said, in part:

"The founders who brought the Automobile Association into existence on August 17, 1907, were actuated by the old truth that those who have a common purpose can succeed best through united action and mutual helpfulness. That purpose was to enable motorists to accomplish for themselves collectively those things which lay beyond their reach as individuals and to provide an organized force for the betterment of motoring conditions. When we consider what the growth of motoring has meant to all people it is readily seen that this was no merely selfish or narrowly conceived purpose. It was essentially public-spirited and so it has remained.

"The substantial progress enjoyed by the Association for more than a quarter of a century is not the result alone of efforts by those who have served it in positions of leadership. Even more directly is it the result of the sustaining confidence and enthusiasm of those scores of thousands of member-motorists, now and in the past, who by their support have made the Association pre-eminent among organizations of its kind. They, in very truth, are the Automobile Association, and it is from them that this anniversary derives its real significance and its greatest promise of future achievement."

Relief Rolls Are To Be Cleaned

President Roosevelt's order to drop from the relief rolls all persons refusing to accept wages and conditions of employment provided by the new federal works program will be followed literally in California.

This was made clear by Works Progress Administrator Frank Y. McLaughlin who said the order would apply to all persons refusing WPA work assignments for any reason whatsoever.

"The work program was devised in order that the federal government might quit the business of relief," said McLaughlin. "It is designed to provide employment for destitute, able-bodied persons only until such time of need for it shall have ceased."

Any misapprehension that the program is in any way competitive with private industry must be dissipated immediately, the Administrator said:

"Relief clients will be offered work opportunities by means of useful public projects and at monthly salaries which purposely have been made lower than those paid for similar employment in private industry. The plan is to provide the able-bodied unemployed with jobs permitting support of themselves and their families only until they can find jobs for themselves.

"The free public employment services with which all relief clients must be registered if they are to be employed by the WPA will help clients to re-establish themselves in private jobs."

News of the Week

Because he had been elected president of the class of 1935 of Sutter Union High School, Lewis Landis, 18, turned bandit. Pride of office made him rob a service station three times for a total of $55. Prestige demanded he have better clothes. He was arrested last week.

As the State American Legion convention came to a sweltering close at Fresno, Dan Emmett of Santa Paula was elected department commander. During the convention Thomas M. Foley, veteran welfare board chairman, issued a statement describing adoption of a new plan to speed up state buying of farms and homes for veterans with veteran bond issue funds.

The state general fund deficit will total about $65,000,000 by June 30, 1937, declares State Controller Ray L. Riley. This figure was reached after checking expenditures against money appropriated by the last legislature.

After several anxious days, the $2,000,000 paycheck for California's 230,000 relief families arrived from Washington. An extra day was lost in making disbursements because of difficultiy in finding Governor Frank Merriam, who had to sign Washington check. He was in Long Beach at a dentist's office. Because of the delay, California SERA funds became short again almost immediately.

With $5, a fishrod, a gun and a bull terrier, 15-year-old Robert Bly left his Eagle Rock home and trekked to Grants Pass, Oregon. After writing his anxious family, who had started police on a statewide search for him, he started back, arriving in San Francisco minus his pack, but with 30 cents in his pocket and his dog by his side. Police who had detained him at the Bay City, released him after receiving word from his mother that he could be trusted to return home.

The Wilcox national air defense bill recently signed by President Roosevelt assures the rehabilitation of Mather Field near Sacramento as one of the Coast's chief bases. Other California air fields will be strengthened as part of the program to give the Pacific Coast adequate air protection.

Director Ray Ingels, dynamic reorganizer of the state motor vehicle department, in a surprise move ruled that Russell Bevans, motor vehicle registrar for four years, and E. Raymond Cato, highway patrol chief, must pass civil service exams in order to retain their jobs. Ingels abolished the $200-a-month job of highway patrol physical director held by Young Corbett III, popular California boxer.

While a dose of vigilante-ism was curing Sonoma County of a painful case of communism, five men and women came to Santa Rosa as representatives of the American League Against War and Fascism. They protested to Sheriff H. B. Patteson against the vigilante action. League Ringleader Bert C. Leech tried to start an argument, swinging on the sheriff. Patteson was forced to throw him out of his office.

Although the recent California legislature refused to pass laws enabling cities or counties to issue revenue bonds for publicly owned power plants, their chances of being able to do so despite the legislature's attitude has been heightened by the State Supreme Court decision declaring that the Lassen Municipal Utilities District can make a contract with an agent to market revenue bonds. Bond money will be used to construct a power plant.

On the same day Californians were defeating three propositions at the recent state election, Pacific Coast maritime workers held an election of their own to decide whether to release ten boats tied up in Coast ports. Union officials said it would be several days before election results would be announced. Following day, however, picket lines were withdrawn from five of the freighters. Meanwhile, the seven-week strike of Sacramento River bargemen was thought nearing an end following return to work of one barge company's employes.

Selah Chamberlain, one of San Francisco's most influential public-spirited citizens since the fire of 1906, has died at the age of 61. His aid was asked by Washington to help settle the recent oil tanker strike.

Statistics show that for the first seven months of this year California was freer of crime than it was during the corresponding 1934 session. Crimes, exclusive of homicides, numbered 18,348 in 1935 as against 20,079 the year before.

CONTROL OF CREDIT A BASIC QUESTION
Economist Describes Conflict Between Opposing Social Views on Central Bank

Agitation for government banking is a phase of the conflict between our present "personal competitive enterprise system" in America and the "compulsory state collective security system" of several European States, Virgil Jordan, President National Industrial Conference Board, says in "Banking" published by the American Bankers Association.

"They involve irreconcilable principles of human conduct and philosophy of life and the conflict between them is the key to the economic, social and political struggles of today," Mr. Jordan says.

The enterprise system of which "the development of the United States has been the unparalleled example, depends for its motive power of progress upon the inexhaustible reservoir of energy in individual desire for personal advancement in prosperity, but it guarantees nothing to the individual save freedom of opportunity," the article says.

The collectivist security system, he says, "places all emphasis upon the maintenance of a minimum standard of living for the mass without regard to the creative power of the individual. Quite simply the security system involves the modern form of the philosophy of the slave society." He continues:

A sign of the Times

"The many-sided movement toward governmental banking, deposit insurance and currency management is the most direct and decisive expression of the universal instinctive search for security which is the sign of the times. In America our so-called social security legislation is an important indication of the drift away from the enterprise system toward a collectivist security system with concentration of authority in a Federal government.

"The nationalization of credit is crucial and indispensible for complete state control of the complex industrial and business structure of this country. The drive toward government banking and monetary control is most determined because the relation of the state to credit goes to the root of the enterprise system. A collective security system is inconceivable without nationalization of credit. An enterprise system is inconceivable with it."

Under a collective security system based on government banking the controls "lie solely in the hands of a few persons and depend upon their judgment, will or caprice," Mr. Jordan says, adding that it is they who must determine "upon the basis of some predetermined plan or upon pure political expediency of the moment, what lines of industry and even what individual enterprises shall have the credit."

"Every government is an organ of party power and must respond to the will of the party that put it in power," the Jordan article says. "Under unchecked government operation it is an inescapable tendency of every currency to depreciate and for credit to expand. However much it may be in the interest of the nation, deflation is too dangerous politically for any government.

"In the end government banking and currency management resolve themselves simply into the use of credit as a political instrument of power, and this instrument tends to be used in the long run for expropriation of the community's savings."

Taking precautions to minimize danger of injury, such as occurred in filming similar scenes in 'G-Men,' Warners is keeping all visitors off the set of 'Dr. Socrates,' the Paul Muni picture, during the making of the machine gun sequences.

Under the supervision of George Daley, gun expert, machine gunners use real bullets. Danger is from richocheting lead, which in 'G-Men' wounded an assistant cameraman in the thigh and nicked a piece of flesh out of a technician. Similar accident occurred some years ago in connection with 'Scarface,' when a bystander lost an eye.

Incentive has been publicity accorded by press and national magazines to expansion of air transportation and the exploits of test pilots. Radio, Paramount, Metro, Universal, and Warners are all toying with the idea.

One of the cameramen sent out by Pathe News to get shots of the flooded area of the central New York lake region wound up a baffling situation with some unique views. Was attempting to penetrate area not completely inundated when he found that it would be impossible to get through the rapidly rising waters to his destination. Consequently, he set up his camera on a high rise of land nearby and let his assistant attempt to plough through as far as he could. Then he started grinding the progress of the automobile up to spot where it was abandoned. Resultant shots more dramatic. Cameraman and assistant got to town finally in a rowboat.
